

Roll a dice and determine which item under each category goes into your story. Then start writing.

What you'll need: Pen or Pencil

Start by rolling the dice to choose who will be the main character in the story, and link that to the number listed on the sheet below. Next, roll to find out the what, where and when for your story as decided by the dice.

If there is more than one player of this game, you could each take a category to write and then come back together to see how the story works together. If you are playing alone, you've got the essential structure for your story but use your imagination to bring it to life!

Once you've finished, share your short story with the other players, family or friends, and Welford at welford@tigers.co.uk.
